FOUR LANE MAIN IS HEARING CONSENSUS

Seen & Heard Around Murray

The fellow with time to kill usually wants to kill it with the fellow who hasn't.

Well, we have been to public hearings, but the one we attended yesterday was the most unusual of all.

"Four-lane Main Street Now" seemed to be the consensus. Let's start moving dirt says Bob Moyer. The downtown is going to strangle in its own traffic if something is not done says Bob Carpenter.

We must say that Tom Scott, the District Engineer, conducted the hearing smoothly and well. He is a personable fellow, evidently from a new school of engineers who mix public speaking, diplomacy and knowledge of the job to obtain a high degree of efficiency.

One important factor came out of the hearing and that it the widening of Main Street was mentioned by several people as a problem of long standing. Don Kelley, of the Division of Planning called it the "Number One problem area" of the traffic survey made some years ago.

Another factor is that the cost of doing this work all goes to the state. The state will do all work including all grading, curbs and gutters and sidewalks.

As Dr. Sparks pointed out, now is the opportune time to widen Main Street.

And as someone else said, this is the best opportunity we have ever had to get Main Street widened.

And Thanks to Governor Nunn for keeping a promise he made before the election. He said he

Murray State Employs 66 New Faculty

Murray State University has 66 new faculty members, including 24 with doctorate degrees, for the 1969-70 school year, according to President Harry M. Sparks.

Besides the new faculty members employed by the university, six new men have been assigned to the military science department and six temporary teachers have been hired to teach at the University School during the final year before the high school is discontinued.

Dr. Sparks said the new faculty members help to bring the university's professional staff in line with present needs, adding that "we look forward to a great year at Murray State."

"We are highly pleased with the quality of the staff," he continued. "More than 36 percent of them have completed doctorates and many have had successful teaching experience at other universities. And six of them have been on the teaching staff at Murray State before."

In addition to the number who already have doctorates, Dr. Sparks pointed out that several others are near the completion of requirements for the Ph. D. degree.

The addition of the new faculty members brings the total number of faculty at Murray State to an all-time high of 438 — surpassing last year's record of 401. Student enrollment is also expected to reach a new mark of 7,500 to 7,600 for the fall semester.

Students are registering this week and classes will begin Friday.

New faculty members are: School of Applied Science and Technology: Dr. Alice Koenig, Miss Lillie Glasgow and Dr. Alta Presson, department of home economics; Gene N. Bailey, Paul O. Kollauff and George Nichols, department of

Ted Kennedy Criticizes War Policy

By FREDERICK MARKS
BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., sharply criticized the Nixon administration's Vietnam policy Thursday night, saying the President has repeated the mistakes of the past in a war "impossible to win."

The speech was Kennedy's first major statement on the Vietnam War since a series of commencement addresses in June.

"We have made only token troop withdrawals on the battlefield, more an exercise in politics and improvisation, while the level of fighting and casualties continues," Kennedy said at an American Cancer Society dinner.

"This is the road to war, and

House Passes Amendment To Abolish Electoral College

By ROBERT J. TAYLOR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In its first such action since 1803, the House has passed a proposed constitutional amendment to allow presidential elections by a direct vote of the people.

Although the proposal's future in the Senate is uncertain, the unexpectedly large margin by which it passed the House Thursday—339 to 70—gave it a new momentum. Even if it clears the Senate it would still require approval by 38 states before it could become the 28th amendment to the Constitution.

The amendment proposal would scrap the 180-year-old electoral college in favor of a direct vote and provide for a runoff between the two top tickets if none polled 40 per cent of the vote on the first balloting. The last amendment proposal dealing with the election machinery, the 12th amendment, cleared Congress 166 years ago. It dealt with only a slight revision of the Electoral College, affecting the way the electors vote for president and vice president.

The senate judiciary committee still must decide from among several plans for overhauling presidential elections; but senate leaders have placed the question on their informal calendar for floor action with the supreme court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth and considered the Newspaper Preservation Act.

Nearly half the senate membership favors the direct election approach contained in the house-passed proposal; but there are two major rival plans, and a two-thirds majority of each chamber must settle on the same proposed amendment before it can be submitted to the states.

There was little chance any proposed amendment could go through the whole process and become law before the next presidential election.

Opponents of the direct popular election plan, mostly representatives from small states or rural constituencies, lost a last-minute bid to kill it and have the House Judiciary Committee return with a district vote count plan.

This was turned down 162 to 245.

Large Audience Endorses Widening Of Main Artery

The consensus of the public hearing, held yesterday afternoon by the Kentucky State Highway Department on the four-laning of Main Street, was unanimous and an enthusiastic endorsement by the approximately 200 persons who jammed the City Council chamber of the Murray City Hall.

The hearing, conducted by Tom Scott, District Engineer for the Department of Highways, Paducah, was one of the most harmonious ever conducted in the city, with numerous expressions of endorsement by those present and with no adverse criticism of the proposed four-laning project.

Mr. Scott explained that the total width of the project will be 74 feet from side to side and will include four lanes, median strip, curbs, gutters and sidewalks. The lanes are to be twelve feet wide with a four foot median strip in the center. Gutters will be two feet wide and there will be a two foot strip between the gutter and sidewalk. Sidewalks are to be five feet wide with a two foot strip beyond the sidewalk.

Scott told the large and attentive audience that a four step procedure would be taken to obtain the necessary additional footage for the project. First a title search would be made to determine the exact owner. Second, the property would be appraised by qualified personnel. Third, negotiations would be conducted. And fourth, the deal closed and title passed to the Kentucky Department of Highways.

Residents whose land is taken will be properly compensated, he continued, and also recompensed if damaged in other ways.

Several local residents and organizations endorsed the project and urged an immediate beginning.

Some Think Pilots Need A Muzzle

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Every now and then some individual who does a lot of flying will rise up and demand that airline pilots be muzzled.

These passengers contend that pilots are becoming increasingly "mike happy." The captain switches on the intercom when he switches on the engines and keeps up a steady stream of chatter for the duration of the flight, they complain.

I'll readily concede that not every pilot is a brilliant monologist. I can understand how a person who flies frequently might come to regard a soliloquizing pilot as something of a bore.

But those of us who fly as little as possible and hate every minute of it have some rights in this matter, too. We probably form the majority on any given flight, and to us a loquacious pilot is the next best thing to a security blanket.

It hasn't what he says that matters; we just like to have constant reassurance that he is still up there in the cockpit.

The finest pilot I ever encountered was at the controls a couple of years ago on a flight to Washington from Memphis, with stopovers in Nashville and Knoxville. He identified himself, as I recall, as Captain Abrams.

As he was taxiing out to the runway preparatory to taking off from Nashville, he suddenly stopped the plane and reported over the intercom that a nasty looking thunderhead was moving into the area.

He probably could fly around it, he said, but he felt it best to stay on the ground until it had left the vicinity.

"They don't call me 'chicken' Abrams for nothing," he added. It was a great comfort to me to learn that the plane was being flown by a fellow coward.

I came closer to relaxing on that flight than ever before or since.

A pilot who projects an image of steel-nerved competence will have me cringing in my seat the entire trip. But if his voice trembles a bit, suggesting that he is as frightened as the rest of us, I calm down considerably. I know he isn't going to do anything daring.

Indeed, I would like to see the Federal Aviation Administration make cowardice one of the requisites for a pilot's license. Before being certified, a pilot would have to take some sort of test to prove that he has a yellow streak.

Don't give me a pilot who will say, "I have flown through worse weather than this." Give me a pilot who will say, "you aren't getting me to fly in weather like this. No siree Bob!"

—And let him keep on saying it until we land.

Let Me Write

Murray lost a promising young Doctor when Charles Mercer decided to advance in his field but from all accounts we made up that loss in getting Dr. Huffman. I'm told he is not a "guesser" and has all the practice he really needs already. I'd like to meet the man just to see if he ever giggled, shot quail and likes sea foods.

Gordon Parks, author, producer and director, along with Frank Robinson, negroes, have done more good for the negro race than all the rebellion leaders put together. They used talent and improved on it to be successful and to impress others regardless of race, creed or color. There are millions more just like them except they have a chip on their shoulder.

I was partially raised by a colored family, Alice and Sam Brigham. They were "Uncle Sam" and "Aunt Alice" to everybody except Pappy too. They raised two grandchildren about my age. Brigham and I spent many happy years playing together. They were referred to as niggers but mind you not in any degrading stretch of the imagination. To this day I have been unable to find where or when the two words nigger and negro first appeared or which was first.

I do know I learned one of the finest lessons from "Uncle Sam and Aunt Alice" a boy ever could learn. Aunt Alice probably cooked it all at Mammy's but she carried bowls of vittles home to eat and I slipped off a thousand times to eat with them. She had a little lamp table from which the lamp was put on the mantle, and that was my table. She would help my plate but cautioned me I could not eat until Sam "Thanks God for what we got". From three years old this held true and I could count the times on my fingers and toes that food was eaten before the blessing was asked in my house.

It's an honor and a privilege to be an American and long to late to show we appreciate being one.

Today is Friday, Sept. 19th, the 262nd day of 1969 with 103 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1777, American soldiers won the first battle of Saratoga, New York in the Revolutionary War.

In 1863 Union and Confederate soldiers met in the Battle of Chickamauga, Georgia. The rebels won the following day.

In 1881, American President James Garfield died in Elberon, N.J., of gunshot wounds inflicted by a disgruntled office seeker on July 2.

In 1960 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev received a cold reception when he arrived in the United States to attend the United Nations General Assembly.

A though for the day: President James Garfield said, "This nation is too great to look for mere revenge. But for the security of the future I would do everything."

Roy Campanella batted in 142 runs in the 1953 season for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Earl Morrall was the National Football League's leading passer in 1968.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Your Satisfaction Guaranteed"

Mrs. Henderson, unhappy with her new drapes, refused to pay for them. When the drapery maker filed suit for his money, Mrs. Henderson told the court:

"He guaranteed that the drapes would be made to my entire satisfaction. Well, I am not satisfied."

"That's only because she is so finicky," retorted the drapery man. "To most customers, these drapes would be just fine."

Nevertheless, the court ruled against him. The judge said that, having promised to satisfy her personally, he was obliged to live up to his promise.

As a rule, when you make a purchase in which your personal satisfaction is guaranteed, you are indeed entitled to be satisfied. Nevertheless, since this gives a customer so much leeway, the courts usually won't interpret the contract that way unless such an intention is clear. Thus:

A contractor agreed to make some house repairs in a "satisfactory" manner. When the job was done, the home owner refused to pay, saying he personally was not satisfied.

The contractor promptly went to court, where he argued that the word "satisfactory" meant only that the work had to be good enough to satisfy the average customer.

And the court agreed, ordering the home owner to pay up. The judge said since the contract did not specifically call for a personal standard of satisfaction, it would be unfair to impose one arbitrarily upon the contractor.

Even if the contract does call for a personal standard of satisfaction, you still cannot reject the merchandise if you are not honestly dissatisfied. Consider this case:

A young man bought a piano on the understanding that if he was not satisfied, he could cancel the deal within 30 days. He did try to cancel it—but because he didn't like the piano. It seems he had received his draft notice, and would soon have to leave town.

Under these circumstances, a court ruled that the young man had to keep the piano. The court said cancelling for this kind of a reason was a privilege he just did not have.

Can Jack Hiatt be 1969's Chuck Hiller?

Who's Jack Hiatt and who's Chuck Hiller? They're the nobodies the San Francisco Giants like to keep around for heroics when big guys like Willie Mays are resting.

Hiller produced one of the all-time "Who's he?" reactions when he sneaked out from obscurity to blast a game-winning grand slam home run in the 1962 World Series, the last time the Giants were in the finals.

Hiatt, who hadn't homered since June 27 this year, connected for a three-run shot in San Francisco's 9-3 smothering of Houston Thursday. Hiatt also singled in a run and slashed out another single for a perfect 3 for 3 at the plate, to lead the Giants into first place in the National League West.

Mays, meanwhile, reinforced his knee and had to leave the game, postponing for a few days his quest for that elusive 600th career homer.

In other National League action, Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 5-2, the New York Mets shut out Montreal 2-0, Philadelphia beat Chicago 5-3, St. Louis squeaked by Pittsburgh 8-7 and San Diego routed Cincinnati 7-1.

In the American League, California checked Minnesota 5-2, Cleveland beat Detroit 6-4, New York edged Washington 4-3, Kansas City thrashed Oakland 6-1 and Baltimore split a doubleheader with Boston, taking the opener 6-4 before dropping the nightcap 5-0.

Hiatt's slugging helped rookie Ron Bryant post his fourth victory against two defeats and his third without a loss against the Astros.

Rookie Ted Sizemore provided some fireworks for Los Angeles as he tripled with the bases filled, after scoring an earlier run, to drop the Braves out of first and into a tie with the Dodgers, both 1/2 game behind the Giants.

Don Sutton went the distance on a seven-hitter to register his 17th win of the year, while Phil Niekro was turned back in his quest for his 21st victory.

Tom Seaver continued the great clutch pitching by the Mets' talented young staff, hurling a five-hitter for his 23rd victory to reduce the Mets' "magic number" to eight for clinching the National League's Eastern Division title.

Mike Ryan singled home the tie-breaking run and set up an insurance run when Johnny Briggs scored after an attempted pick-off of Ryan as the Phillies handed Chicago its 12th loss in its last 15 games. Cookie Rojas tied the game for the Phils with a leadoff homer in the eighth before Ryan came through in the ninth to give Grant Jackson his 13th victory against 12 losses.

St. Louis rookie Ted Simmons singled home Curt Flood with the winning tally with two out in the ninth to give the Cards the edge over Pittsburgh. The Pirates got all their runs in a seven-run outburst in the seventh inning, two coming on Jose Pagan's pinch-hit homer, for a 7-3 lead. Vada Pinson's two-run homer, the 200th of his career, led a St. Louis comeback in the eighth to make it 7-6 and Vic Davalillo came home to tie it in the ninth on Al Oliver's error before Simmons' big hit.

Bobby Pena drove in two runs in a big six-run fifth inning for San Diego and Jose Arcia paced a 12-hit attack with three doubles as rookie Clay Kirby earned his sixth victory against 19 losses. The defeat dropped the Reds two games behind San Francisco in the Western Division race and ended pitcher Jim Maloney's six-game winning streak.

American League

By FRED MCMAINE
UPI Sports Writer

What little chance the Oakland Athletics have to win the American League's Western Division title appears to have literally slipped away.

The Athletics missed an opportunity to gain another game on the Minnesota Twins Thursday night when they lost to the Kansas City Royals, 6-1, due to a misplay in rightfield by rookie Bob Brooks.

The incident occurred in the fourth inning with the Royals leading 2-1. The Royals had loaded the bases with two out on walks issued by John "Blue Moon" Odom, when Lou Piniella lofted a shallow fly ball to right field.

Brooks started late on the ball then suddenly fell down as all three runners scored and Piniella wound up at third base with a triple. That was all the encouragement Mike Hedlund needed as he scattered seven hits to win his first game since May 15.

"I lost the ball in the lights, and when I finally saw it I tripped over my own feet," said a disheartened Brooks.

That loss cost the Athletics a chance to move up on the Twins, who dropped a 5-2 decision to the California Angels, and left them nine games behind the division leaders. Any combination of Twins' victories or Athletics' defeats totalling five would give the title to Minnesota.

In other AL action, Cleveland beat Detroit 6-4, New York edged Washington 4-3 and Baltimore topped Boston 6-4 in the first game of a doubleheader then lost the nightcap 5-0.

The New York Mets blanked Montreal 2-0, Philadelphia topped Chicago 5-3, San Francisco beat Houston 9-3, St.

Heavy Slate On Tap In SEC For Saturday, Miami Waiting

By DAVID MOFFIT
UPI Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Southeast's major college football teams, anxious to restore some of that lustre that has been worn thin by bowl losses the past couple of winters, open their 1969 campaign Saturday en masse and with a certain amount of trepidation.

"In a way, you sort of dread the start of the season," one coach said recently while being visited by touring sportswriters. "It only takes one weekend to eliminate half of us from the ranks of the unbeaten."

There's a heavy slate on tap with Miami the lone dissenter, waiting until next week to get into the fray.

Alabama is at Virginia Tech, Wake Forest at Auburn, Houston at Florida, Tulane at Georgia, Indiana at Kentucky, Memphis State at Mississippi, Richmond at Mississippi State, Chattanooga at Tennessee, Vanderbilt at Michigan and Southern Methodist at Georgia Tech in day games. At night, Texas A&M will be at Louisiana State and Wichita State at Florida State.

Tigers Seek Third Win Of Season At Mayfield Tonight

The Murray High Tigers and the Mayfield Cardinals renew their annual football rivalry tonight in what should be one of the weekend's best grid clashes in the state.

Game time is 8 p.m. at Memorial Stadium in Mayfield. Both teams are unbeaten so far this season and to add interest to the contest, Murray is unscored upon except for a safety scored by Fulton County.

Coch Ty Holland's Tigers will be looking for their third win after defeating Fulton County and Henry County, Tenn. 41-2 and 30-0 respectively.

The Cardinals have posted a 21-6 win over Caldwell County and a 31-14 win over Sikeston, Mo.

This year's game could be one of the best in the long history of the football series. Although Murray lost 10 offensive and nine defensive starters from last two games, to say the least. Against a highly-regarded Tiger team from Caldwell Co., the Cardinal blocking reduced the opponent's defense to freshman team level. Then in the second half at Sikeston, Mo., last Friday, the blocking of Mayfield interior linemen helped pour across 24 points for a decisive win in the final two periods.

Linemen starters on offense for Mayfield are expected to be: ends, Scott Qualk and Jerry Sanders; tackles, Andy Anderson and Dennis Toon; guards, Danny Walker and John Hendon, both of whom have been standouts on both offense and defense; and center, Randy Rains. Karl Anderson, a sophomore tackle reserve, has played a major role in two opening wins for Mayfield by relieving at tackle.

The sophomore has impressed the Mayfield coaching staff with his blocking and all-around fine play. In addition to Eowler, Pitman and Mayfield in the Cardinal backfield, either Rick Lamkin or Marvin Hollingsworth will start at slotback. Regular starter Lamkin received a knee injury in Mayfield's opener and was spelled by Hollingsworth at Sikeston last week.

With the predicted line-ups, the Tigers will hold approximately 15 pounds per man weight advantage on the average across the front line. In the backfield, Mayfield figures to have the edge in both weight and experience.

Little if any conclusions can be drawn from past records when Mayfield and Murray meet on the field, however. Friday night's game stacks up as one of the best on Mayfield's schedule this season. If the weatherman cooperates, a near-capacity crowd is predicted.

Dear Abby

Virtue went —unrewarded?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you for some practical words of advice to pass on to my 16-year-old daughter. She is a fine, pretty, intelligent girl with high ideals. Popular, too, and respected by her classmates. I have instilled the "old fashioned" virtues in her and we have had some frank discussions about sex. She's always believed that it paid off to be "nice," and went with one of the most popular boys in high school. They enjoyed a decent, fun relationship and considered themselves "in love" as most kids do. She wore his "friendship" ring and he wore hers.

She told me that lately he was trying to get her to go a little bit further than she wanted to go, but she managed to keep him in line.

Last week he gave her an ultimatum, and when she refused to cross the limit line, he dropped her and went back to his old girl. [He had told my daughter that he'd been intimate with that girl; and I have reason to believe he had. I am not knocking her, but she has had no supervision, having lived with a divorced mother who has a poor reputation and is never home herself.]

Now my daughter feels that being "good" did not pay off. In her disappointment and jealousy and through her 16-year-old eyes she's played life's game honorably and lost, while the other girl did all the "wrong" things and won. What can I say to her?

HER MOM

DEAR MOM: You can tell her that "life's game" is hardly over at age 16, and a boy who would give her such an ultimatum is no bargain. Tell her, too, that before the game is over, she'll realize that the she may have lost one boy-friend, she WON much more.

DEAR ABBY: Some very good friends of ours have a son who has gone the hippie route. When we inquire about their "children," [they have others who are married and one is in the service] should we inquire about their hippie son? Or should we just not mention him, like he is "dead"? We know that they are pretty sick about the life he leads.

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Knowing that your friends would be hurt or embarrassed by the mention of their hippie son, don't mention him.

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with me? I was crazy about this man who was wonderful company and a great guy. The only thing wrong with him was that sometimes he drank too much. Then he got quarrelsome and moody. He wanted to marry me, but I was afraid of his drinking and kept putting him off. He got tired of my stalling and married somebody else.

I hear his wife sold him on A. A. and he hasn't had a drink in a year. I can't get this guy off my mind and now I'm eating my heart out. Can you help me?

LONELY IN A CROWD

DEAR LONELY: Quit eating your heart out with thoughts of what might have been. The one who got away always looks best. And should you ever meet another "wonderful guy" whose only weakness is joy juice, try to tell him on A. A. And if you succeed, THEN marry him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STUPID": No question is stupid if it's sincere. Don't ever be afraid to ask a "stupid" question. It's better than making a stupid mistake.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Grace Wyatt Circle Meets In Home Of Mrs. James Kline

The September meeting of the Grace Wyatt Circle of the First Presbyterian Church was held in the home of Mrs. James Kline who served coffee and cake before the meeting.

Mrs. Alfred Lindsey, circle chairman, presided and gave the program on "Prayer In The Home". She began with questions such as "How Christians Worship Through Prayer" and "Why Do We Pray". She quoted different passages of scripture on the importance of prayer which led to much discussion by the group.

It was announced that the library luncheon will be served at the First Presbyterian Church on October 10.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 14, at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Rex Hawkins with Mrs. John Gregory presenting the program.

To keep down calories, cut down the fat used in cooking these dishes. — Miss Patricia Everett, Court House, Benton, Kentucky 42025; Telephone 527-6801.

Lice, which infests ornamental houseplants, and looks like tiny specks of cotton, can be removed without hurting the plant, by wiping lightly with rubbing alcohol. — Mrs. Maxine Griffin, Federal Bldg., Clinton, Kentucky 42031; Phone 653-2231.

Here are a few hints to follow when cutting flowers for your own arrangements. — Flowers should be cut in the early morning or evening . . . never in the heat of the day. An ideal time is in the evening so the flowers can be conditioned overnight and ready for aranging in the morning. It is helpful if you carry a bucket of warm water to the garden. Cut your flowers with a sharp knife, remove unnecessary foliage and put them immediately into the warm water. Leave the bucket of flowers in a cool, dark spot 'til morning so they can harden properly. Finished arrangements will last longer, too, if you place them in a cool, dark place overnight. To curve stems of gladioli, marigolds, etc., place them in your conditioning bucket on a slant. — Mrs. Juanita Ammonett, Court House, Paducah, Kentucky 42003; Phone 442-2718.

Perhaps never in history have there been as many offerings in apparel as there are in this fall's clothing. There is no "one-look" for man, woman or child. From all this variety, each individual may select that which suits the taste, personality, age and style of life. A copy of up-to-date information on fall fashions may be obtained by writing or calling Catherine C. Thompson, Area Extension Agent — Clothing and Textiles, P. O. Box 270, Hickman, Kentucky 42050, and requesting a copy of the "Clothing Guidepost, Fall '69" prepared by Rachel Wallace, Extension Specialist in Clothing, University of Kentucky. Or you may call 236-2351 in Hickman. — Mrs. Catherine C. Thompson, Hickman, Ky. 42050.

FHA Officers At

District Meeting

The Murray University School chapter of the Future Homemakers of America attended the

FHA District Fall Leadership

Conference held at Lowes High

School on Saturday, September

"FHA'ers — Team Up For Leadership" was the theme for the conference. The purpose of the meeting was to train each chapter officer to become a better leader and officer of her club, and to create interest in the new program of work.

Officers attending the conference were Karen Alexander, president; Nancy Kuraave, second vice-president; Cheryl

Pierce, historian; Allison Wil-ferd, member at large; Miss

Sue Fairless, chapter advisor.

Here, much to the discomfort of smaller cars.
'70 Nova.

Nova has smaller cars squirming principally because it doesn't make you squirm.

The not-too-small Nova Coupe seats five adults. Sedan, six.

And you get windows instead of portholes. A bona fide trunk. And a wide-stance ride on a 111" wheel-base.

Further, you have a happy choice of six engines and five transmissions (including low-cost, no-clutch Torque-Drive).

And Nova is anything but dowdy. See above.

Certainly, little cars have to be more than a little uneasy about Nova's easy price.

It simply doesn't cost that much more to own that much more car.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Fruit Of The Spirit

Eagerly we await each new season and the crop of fruit from our trees. We know the harvest depends on the quality of those trees. The Good Book plainly tells us that good fruit comes only from good trees and bad fruit from bad trees.

A human life is like that. And the need is great for good people who will produce good fruit for the common good... fruit of the spirit!

Love, joy, peace, humility, temperance and a faith to live by.

We have too much immorality, licentiousness, enmity, strife, anger and selfishness already. These are the fruits of bad trees. One would do well not to allow too much of this harvest on his fruit bowl.

Is your life producing fruit of the flesh because it is world-centered? Or is your life God-centered and producing Fruit of the Spirit? The Apostle Paul reminds us that good fruit is expected from us. What is the quality of fruit in your fruit bowl.

What kind of tree are you?

DOWN CONCORD WAY

by Estelle Spiceland

September 15, 1969

The tranquility of our community was disturbed last Friday by a premeditated robbery of a sick widow who lived in a tiny two room house with her afflicted daughter who does not speak.

Mrs. Dean Russell who lives in sight of the former Wisehart Grocery a mile from Concord said a nice looking young man came into her home saying he was from the REA and had come to run her electric lines under ground so service would be better, and for widows her electric bill would then only be $1.00 per month. He asked her to come outside and hold the tape measure so he could know where to run the ditches which she would pay $1.00 a foot for. Another older man sat in an old red car and only came around the house later in a hurry to leave.

She had cashed her support check the day before and had it in a billfold in a drawer to buy her winter coal and necessities with later. A little suspicious, after she asked her daughter if the other man came in, and the daughter nodded he had, she looked for her billfold and it was gone. She went to her telephone to call the nearby Baker Fish Market, but could not make herself heard even though Mrs. Baker answered. She and the daughter then walked to the Wisehart Grocery to call the law and telephone company. A piece had been taken out of the phone.

We need stiffer punishment for law breakers, and instead of putting them in jail they should, under strict supervision, be put at hard labor.

Concord is undergoing some changes. Hubert Pittman has cut the giant oak on the school ground so no more limbs can fall to endanger children.

Maud and Mary Nance have had Larry Traubner bulldoze two old houses off the lot they bought adjoining Sulphur Spring Church. They are having a new house and antique shop started.

Mrs. Guy Lovins spent last week in the hospital suffering from a slipped disc. She returned home but was admitted to the Baptist Hospital, Eighth Floor, 8121, Nashville, Tenn.,

Prof lists restraints on housing progress

By MIKE FEINSILBER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Probably never before in American history have so many people wanted to move into a new home. Probably rarely before have so many been able to afford the move. And yet the housing industry is caught in something akin to a depression. Tight money, of course, is the classic reason behind this apparent contradiction. But beyond that, there are other reasons—and a subcommittee of the House-Senate Economic Committee held hearings recently to go into them.

It looked at a now familiar question: Why can't the United States employ its technological excellence that put a man on the moon within a 10-year goal to supply the 28 million new homes which congress declared in 1968 as another 10-year national goal. It is a goal already falling out of reach.

One of the witnesses at the hearing was Richard H. Rosen, a Harvard professor and the president of Urban Systems, Inc., of Boston, who would like to see the "systems analysis" process which sent a man to the moon used in the construction of homes.

"The constraints on the moon flight were almost exclusively resource constraints: money and trained personnel," Rosen said. "Economists have known for a long time that an increase of resources in a particular area will relatively quickly develop the required technologically competent people to earn the high wages."

But, he said, removal of "resource constraints" would not solve this nation's housing problems alone. He said "behavior constraints" also are a factor in housing.

Looks to government
He argued only the government could provide both the resources and the incentives to make people abandon their "behavior constraints" and "to change their actions to those which will enhance efficient housing development."

He listed these nine restraints as among the most damaging to the housing goal:

The housing industry's industrial organization, which he said makes the industry unable "to develop, modify and accept for regular use sensible technological innovations."

The industry's "inability to interpret the preferences and behavior of home users."

The multiplicity of ownership of available housing sites for large-scale industrialized housing projects. "If large-scale housing is to be developed in the American cities, much of the speculative uncertainty associated with land must be eliminated" so that big building projects, utilizing technology, will have a prospect of profit.

The barrier imposed by conventional architectural training on the efficient use of technology. Architects, he said, are trained to design one unique and individualistic house at a time.

The inefficiency of the marketplace. "By the time one gets through chopping up the housing market into all its relevant pieces, one finds that the number of housing units in demand in any particular metropolitan area for which any given technology is applicable may be below the minimum efficient size for a production facility," he said. "Perhaps people will have to be given the incentive 'to give up structural individuality.'"

In addition, Rosen listed three reasons frequently cited—environmental considerations, including zoning laws and density regulations, restrictive work practices by unions and housing's troubled system of financing. He said subsidies will have to be part of the financing picture for a long time to come if it is public policy to house poor people in new housing.

Corporation Just That Now Says IRS

A corporation is a corporation, even if it is made up of doctors, dentists, lawyers or accountants. Until recently, a corporation recognized by a state was not always a corporation in the eyes of the Internal Revenue Service. Since 1963, it had held fast to a regulation denying corporate tax treatment to incorporated professionals on grounds this was done to gain tax advantage in group insurance, retirement, pension and profit-sharing plans.

More states passed enabling legislation and courts repeatedly ruled the IRS position discriminatory, since any other groups of persons could incorporate to gain tax benefits not available to proprietorships and partnerships.

But Internal Revenue finally has relented, and so legislation favored by most of the nation's independent business owners will not be necessary. The National Federation of Independent Business says its poll shows 61 percent of responding proprietors favored legislation by Representative Ancher Nelsen of Minnesota to require IRS to recognize professional incorporations where allowed by states. Only 30 percent opposed it and 9 percent had no opinion.

Returns from Kentucky indicate that 52 percent support the measure (and hence the IRS change of mind), 38 percent oppose it, and 10 percent are undecided. One pertinent question is, what prompted Internal Revenue to drop its regulation? The answer may be found in the tax reform package which has passed the House of Representatives and awaits Senate action. The bill would knock out capital-gains treatment on part of any lump-sum distributions from pension

Dustin Dusts Off Some Phony Rumors

By ARMY ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—Dustin Hoffman—a sex symbol? Nah. He's a character actor. At least he thinks so, despite what Hollywood producers would like him to believe.

On the release of his first film, "The Graduate," he did become a dreamboat to girls all over the world, and just why such a thing happened to an ordinary-looking lad of five-foot-six, who by the sound of him ought to do something about those adenoids, has never been satisfactorily explained. But, whatever the reason, Hoffman had never been fooled.

Sure, the girls chase him. "But it's not me they're chasing," he modestly says. "They think I'm 'The Graduate's Benjamin Braddock.'" But, contrary to those "anti-star" stories, he even likes being chased, and admits it. He even confesses, "I used to dream of it. Sure, I had all the fantasies."

THEY'LL tell you in Hollywood it isn't the talent that makes the star—it's the "image." And Hoffman owns up the "image." And Hoffman owns up the "image." And Hoffman owns up the "image."

After all, it could be cosy. But, Dusty's not doing it. Bye Bye, Bennie—you'll never see "Bennie" again. Not by Dustin Hoffman, anyway.

It's the character that interests this boy, not the personal image. Off-Broadway, before he ever came to Hollywood, he played a hunchbacked Nazi homosexual in "Harry, Noon and Night," a spectacle Russian clerk in "Journey Of The Fifth Horse," a Cockney plumber in "Eh?"

Dustin followed "The Graduate" on the screen with "Ratso Rizzo," a crippled New York pimp with discolored teeth, agenting for a professional stud from Texas (Jon Voight) after which he was bullied into doing the sex bit opposite Mia Farrow in "John and Mary," while playing "Jimmy Shine" on B'way, same time! After "Ratso," he was advised: "You've got to come back a human being!"

AFTER "John," Dustin is doing a whole new gallery of Hoffmans in "Little Big Man," a sort of "Tom Jones Out West." He's a frontier schoolboy of 16 whom Faye Dunaway adopts and tries to seduce (TRIES!); an adopted Cheyenne Indian in war paint and braids; a drunk in the Deadwood, S.D. mud; a hermit trapper with foot-long beard; a raunchy scout at the Battle of the Little Big Horn, and finally a totally unrecognizable Hoffman with wrinkles, liver spots and wattles down to his clavicle—the sole white survivor of Custer's Last Stand—at the age of 121! (With the help of considerable makeup that is).

Meanwhile, Hollywood is standing at attention: can a star with so many faces hang onto stardom? Well, Lon Chaney did. But not—as a lover boy. Nevertheless, Dustin's not worried. "I'm a character actor," he insists. Yet, he's no "anti-star," as charged. "I like the freedom stardom gives me to pick and choose. I even like the money. No more financial worries." He threw out both arms. "No more 'Can I afford this or that?' I can!"

Hoffman's fee for "The Graduate" was $20,000. After living expenses and taxes he says he wound up with a fifth of that and kept the little Greenwich Village apartment. Today, he's drawing a six-figure salary with a percentage of the GROSS profits, a deal held by less than a handful of stars.

A GOOD DEAL of Hoffman's income goes to psychoanalysis. He visits a head shrinker five times a week when he's in New York and not working. "It's one of the two most important things in my life," he admits. "Some people take dope or alcohol to escape pressure. Well, scrutiny is one of the most acute pressures a man can have."

Dustin also now has a secretary and business manager and is investing in stocks, etc. He's paying $400 a month rent and bought a pool table.

The 31-year-old Hoffman won't live in Hollywood—although born here. "Because the caste system is so thick you can cut it." He lived in an expensive Malibu home during the filming of "Little Big Man" and is talking about buying a town house in New York.

When the company located at Billings, Mont., Dustin requested an eight bedroom house—to bring his entire family there to vacation while he was up there. He got it. After all he's a star—even though he thinks he's a character actor!

His & Hers

Datsun's his and hers Sports Car...it's a problem how they share it. Because with a 135 H.P. overhead cam engine and front disc brakes...plus deluxe vinyl upholstery and a transistor radio as standard equipment...it's a sports car for both street and track. We call it the 2000. Datsun also makes another sports car...the 1600. It has the same big list of no-cost extras and a little less horsepower. That ought to please just about everyone. TV CAMEOS: Paul Ford

There's Life in the Old Colonel Yet

By MEL HEIMER

THERE was a little less of the graying hair on his dome, but there was a lot more of it in the sideburns, which were distinctly more. There was a mustache, of all things, and the expected twinkle in the eyes as Paul Ford shook his head hound-dog fashion.

"I even LIVE here in New York," he said, "and I can't get tickets for 'Hair' and 'Oh, Calcutta!' I've suggested to them that if it's the only way to get in, maybe I ought to do a nude scene onstage for them."

Thus we have the famous old colonel himself from the Bilko series, befuddled as is normal with him but still very much with it, keeping up with the times—and, TV viewers will be glad to know, due back on the video screen this fall in "In Name Only."

One of those 90-minute "movie" originals being turned out by ABC for its "Movie of the Week" series.

Ford, who didn't start acting until he was 40—before that he was a proof reader, story writer, night watchman, salesman, caterer and puppeteer—has been closely tied in with television, what with Bilko and "The Baileys of Balboa," and he harked back to them.

"BILKO, I should say, was marked by good companionship; we had a congenial company," he recalled. "Oddly, for such a frenetic show, there weren't too many mishaps, although I remember once somebody brought a birthday cake on-camera for a birthday party Phil Silvers was supposed to be throwing, and the guy dropped the cake and the candles almost set the whole studio afire."

"A lot of the Bilko 'soldiers' have continued making a good buck in the business—people like Billy Sands, in 'McHale's Navy,' Eddie Montagne, Harvey Lembeck, Alvin Melvin and Bernie Fine, who was just one of the Bilko platoon but later got the idea for, and created, 'Hogan's Heroes.'"

Ford feels that Nat Hiken, the guiding genius behind Bilko, was the one who kept the quality of that show so high, and made it last five years. It was Hiken who spotted Paul as "Colonel Purdy" in "The Teahouse of the August Moon" and decided he was the ideal man for Colonel Hall in the Silvers show.

"BAILEYS OF BALBOA" lasted only one season and Ford is inclined to think it was the victim of network politics; Keefe Brasselle was the producer of the show and two others and all three went off the air shortly after Jim Aubrey left CBS. "It was, I think, a genuinely witty show, at least in spots," Ford reminisced. "Although, of course, we had to buck 'Peyton Place' just at a time when the cash customers were ready. I guess, for soap opera."

Like most actors, Ford leans toward the stage, where he has had such marked success in things such as "Ten House," "Never Too Late" and "A Thruer Carnival," and he said he used to have long arguments with Maurice O'Sullivan, his "Too Late" co-star, about the differences in acting in TV, films and the stage. "She said 'It's all acting, isn't it?' but my feeling was that there's a huge difference between all three," Paul said.

THE Baltimore-born Ford attended Dartmouth, intending to become a reporter or lawyer, but had to leave after a year and then started his long string of unrelated jobs. He finally plunged into acting in a little-theater production at $3 a week, did his puppeteering for the WPA and the '39-40 New York World's Fair, and finally got into radio in the early part of World War II. "Teahouse" was his first smash hit and he has worked steadily since.

With his "In Name Only" stint done, he's reading playscripts and contemplating producing a TV series of his own, based on a well-known comic-strip character.

character played by Lana Turner years after their original encounter.

Regular cast members of "The Leslie Uggams Show" on CBS this fall will be Lillian Hayman and comedian Dennis Allen. In the comedy sketch feature of this new variety hour, Miss Hayman will have a role similar to that in the Broadway musical, "Hallelujah, Baby!" in which she played 'Mig Uggams' mother.

A new $300,000 golf tournament, The Dow Jones Open Invitational, will make its bow in 1970, and ABC has acquired the television rights. The broadcasts will be Aug. 29-30 from Upper Montclair, N.J.
